

Habit #2

Begin with the End in Mind

Based on the work Stephen Covey

I plan ahead and set goals. I do things that have meaning and make a difference. I am an important part of my classroom. I look for ways to be a good citizen.

Journal Entry or Discussion Starter:

What is “the end” for you?
What do you hope to be doing ten years from now?
Twenty? Make a list of things you want to do in your life.

Before you figure out the “end”, you have to take a look at who YOU are!

Draw a picture of something that represents you. It could be an animal, plant, machine, a food, etc. Explain why you chose what you did.

In ten years a newspaper decides to do a story about YOU! They interview four people about you. These could be friends or family. What would you want them to say about you?

Mission Statement, Part 1:

Write your name in a circle. Out from the circle, write words that describe you.

Mission Statement, Part 2:

Now think about what kind of person you WANT to be.
Make a list.

I want to be a:

1. Hard worker

2. Good student

3. Kind person

4. Talented artist

Mission Statement, Part 3:

Use the two lists to write a mission statement. This is a sentence or paragraph about the person you want to be. Here are some examples:

My mission is to:

- Laugh a lot
- Learn as much I can
- Work hard at home, school and in my sports
- Be kind to others
- Take good care of myself.
- To get better at my art.

How good are you at beginning with the end in mind?

I always keep the end in mind.

I only think about today.

Why did you rate yourself this way?

"NO."

Journal Entry or Discussion Starter:

How does saying "no" sometimes help you with "beginning with the end in mind"? What things do you have to say no to?

Finish these sentences:

~If I my future had no limits, I would choose to be.....

~I want to be a person who...
